The Comanche Nation Loan Participation Program helps small businesses access the capital they need to start, grow, or expand. Any small business located within the Nation's jurisdictional boundaries as well as Comanche citizen-owned businesses anywhere in the United States are eligible.

How does the fund work?

This fund strengthens your loan application by giving your lender added credit support. You'll continue working directly with your bank throughout the loan process, while the fund helps make approval more attainable.

Is the program right for me?

Any business with less than 750 employees located within the Nation's jurisdiction, may be eligible, as well as any Comanche Tribal Member owned business in the US. The program is built to support Comanche entrepreneurs and the businesses that serve our communities.

How can it help my business?

The fund can support loans for working capital, construction, real estate, equipment, and more providing the financial foundation your business needs to grow and build long-term opportunities.

How do I get started?

Start by visiting your local bank and applying for a loan. If your lender needs additional support to approve it, they can contact the fund for assistance. We're here to help make the path to "yes" clearer and more accessible.
